ParenteBeard Names Salvatore Renzo Partner

ParenteBeard announced today that Salvatore Renzo will join the firm as partner in the business advisory practice.

Based out of the firm’s New York City office, Mr. Renzo will direct the firm’s healthcare clients in making informed decisions on business initiatives, new programs and service lines.

Mr. Renzo brings 23 years of healthcare consulting experience serving private and public companies. He’s credited with directing a significant number of financial and operational consulting engagements for health systems and hospitals across the country. His areas of expertise include business process improvement, managed care contracting, denials management and developing tools and analytical models that combine operational, statistical and financial information for insight into trends and project outcomes.

Since 1996, Mr. Renzo has been the appointed healthcare consultant to a diverse group of leading hospitals and medical centers. His career also includes roles in the healthcare audit group at Deloitte and Ernst & Young.

Sought out for his healthcare industry expertise, Mr. Renzo was the keynote speaker at the American Medical Association’s Women’s Care Florida Management Retreat and the Institute of Industrial Engineers’ New York City chapter conference. A certified public accountant in New York, he holds a bachelor’s degree from Pace University and master’s degree from Clemson University.
