Clemson, SC--A memorial service remembering those who have fallen in service to our nation will be conducted Memorial Day weekend on the Clemson University campus. The service, scheduled for Sunday, May 24 at 4 pm, will feature patriotic songs, a 21-gun salute and remarks by Clemson University President Emeritus and World War II veteran Phil Prince. This year marks the 70th anniversary of the end of World War II.

“The men and women of our armed forces who gave their lives in defense of freedom traded their futures for our tomorrows,” explains Frank Cox, chairman of the Clemson Corps. “Their service should be remembered and honored by all of us who enjoy the freedom that is the legacy of their sacrifice.”

The Clemson Corps, a constituent group of the Clemson Alumni Association, is coordinating the event which will take place at the University’s Scroll of Honor Memorial on Williamson Road directly across from Memorial Stadium. The public is invited to attend. Parking will be available along the Avenue of Champions, immediately north of the stadium. Seating is limited so people are encouraged to bring lawn chairs.

Immediately following the Memorial Day service, a second ceremony will take place to unveil stones inscribed with the names of four World War I veterans recently added to the University’s Scroll of Honor.
